What if your customers had faster access to funds because your financial institution could process images more quickly ?

In the US 40 billion checks are processed each year, of which 20 billion are transit items drawn on a third party bank

What if you could make faster corporate decisions for your financial institution because you had quicker access to your own corporate files?

Management needs to take ownership in creating financial statements and be able to demonstrate why their financial statements are correct
